Hi Gustav, thanks for your suggestion. I want to clarify your suggestion. When you say "include it", what does the "it" refer to, and by dependent origination do you intend to mean origination of cognitions, physical things, or all things generally? Sorry I do remember you mentioned about cognition during the workshop but forgot the details.

What do you think about my suggestion to separate the causal relation between cognitive faculty and resulting cognition from physical causal relations and to include it in the multiple condition of dependent origination?
